It Was a Good Scheme and He Would Try It Again.

A business scheme of one of Austin's shrewd merchants is worth repeating. His name is Haffemall, and he owned a "sheep kloding and shents' furnishing house" up on north Lavaca street. Haffemall came in his store one morning and said:

"Apraham (that was his bookkeeper and clerk), I sold a pair of sleef-buttons to a shenteemans de udder day, and I can't remember who he vas. Py graclous, if ve don't find out who bought tate, to wit:

onguire of it."
"No; I tell you a schemes. You sharge dose sleef-buttons mit every regular customer ve haf, vat wears you giff de bill to all; dose vot don't puy vill kick like Elishas, and you oxblain de mieshtake; and de von vot says nottings about it, he vos all right.

In dot you see, (3) in the northeast quarter of section one (1), in two northwest quarter (3), north, of range three (3) east; also, lots numbered three (3) and four (4), in the northwest quarter, and says nottings about it, he vos all right. such dinks. Und den, don't you see, those buttons up to fifty-two different north, of range four (4) east, and containing men, so as to be sure to get the right

Haffemall forgot all about the thing after that until about the middle of the next month, after all the bills had been collected. He then went into the office and said:

"O, Apraham, I forgot about dose sleef-buttons. Dit you got pay for dem

"Vell, I guess I did once. I made dose bills out to shust fifty-two men; and all payt for dose puttons ogcept one man, who said he neffer wore sleef-buttons in his life."

Vell, dot vas purty good, Apraham. Dose vas a good scheme. Shust try dose on again vonce; if people pay bills it vas not our fault, and if dey kick we can ogsblain it vas a meistake. O, ve must be up to pees iness."

And Abraham went back to charge a pair of $7 boots to twenty men, while Haffemall waited on a new customer. -Galveston News.

Lothario, in the guise of a pedagogue, has increased the population of Criderswille, Ohio, by two, and in a short time two more nameless babes will have brought shame to two other young women who have heretofore been respectable and virtuous. J. C. Ridenour began teaching in that village last fall, and was the envy of all the girls but ville, Ohio, by two, and in a short time and was the envy of all the girls, but recently fled the village as his four victims were exposed, and made complaint for his arrest, one of them being his cousin.
